

faculty

Edwin Amenta (Ph.D., University of Chicago) political sociology, comparative/historical sociology, quantitative methodology

Richard Arum (Ph.D., UC Berkeley) socialization, social stratification, organizations, out-of-school development, technology, policy

Stanley R. Bailey (Ph.D., UCLA) race & ethnicity, religion, latin america

Nina Bandelj (Ph.D., Princeton University) economic sociology, organizations, culture, social networks, comparative sociology, europe

Asia Bento (Ph.D., Rice University) race, ethnicity, inequality, economic sociology

Carter Butts (Ph.D., Carnegie Mellon University) mathematical sociology, social networks, quantitative methodology, human judgment & decision making, economic sociology

Emily Carian (Ph.D., Stanford University) gender inequality, masculinity, male supremacism

Sherelle Ferguson (Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania) education, race and ethnicity, social stratification, social capital and social networks, qualitative methods

Kelley Fong (Ph.D., Harvard University) education policy, inequality and poverty, society and politics/policy perspectives

David John Frank (Ph.D., Stanford University) globalization, sexuality, the natural environment, higher education

Rachel Goldberg (Ph.D., Brown University) demography, health, family, adolescence, migration

Paul Hanselman (Ph.D., University of Wisconsin-Madison) stratification/inequality, education, quantitative methods, treatment effect heterogeneity, data visualization

Ann Hironaka (Ph.D., Stanford University) civil war, culture & identity, environment, globalization

Matt Huffman (Ph.D., UC Santa Barbara) race & gender inequality, labor markets, organizations, research methods

Julia Lerch (Ph.D., Stanford) comparative sociology of education, global and transnational sociology, globalization, refugees and humanitarian emergencies, international development

David S. Meyer (Ph.D., Boston University) social movements, public policy, peace & war, social justice

Andrew Penner (Ph.D., UC Berkeley) gender, inequality, education, family, race

Francesca Polletta (Ph.D., Yale University) political sociology, cultural sociology, law, society

Rocío Rosales (Ph.D., UCLA) international migration, informal economies, ethnic/immigrant enclaves

Rubén G. Rumbaut (Ph.D., Brandeis University) international migration, the “1.5” generation, comparative race & ethnic relations, structural inequality, identity, health & mental health

David Schaefer (Ph.D., University of Arizona) social networks, social psychology, criminology, health, adolescent development

Evan Schofer (Ph.D., Stanford University) comparative political sociology, education, quantitative methods & statistics, globalization, environment, organizations

David A. Smith (Ph.D., University of North Carolina) world systems analysis, urbanization, development, comparative/historical sociology, dependent development in east asia

Sabrina Strings (Ph.D., UC San Diego) race, gender & sexuality, embodiment, sociology of medicine, history of science

Yang Su (Ph.D., Stanford University) social movements & collective action, political sociology, china’s political transition

Edward Telles (Ph.D., University of Texas at Austin) immigration, race, ethnicity, latin america, latinos

Kristin Turney (Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania) demography, family, health, poverty, social support, inequality, life course transitions, education

Irene Vega (Ph.D., UCLA) international migration, racial group formation, socio-legal studies, educational inequality

Wang Feng (Ph.D., University of Michigan) social demography, social inequality in state socialisms, contemporary chinese society

sociology graduate program

UCI School of Social Sciences

application
deadline: dec 1

apply online:
apply.grad.uci.edu/apply

#09

best public sociology program in the U.S.
-U.S. News & World Report

01

university doing most for the American dream
*-New York Times College Access
Index*

01

university for beach lovers
-Money Magazine

01

best value university
-Forbes

uci sociology

A top 10-ranked program with research strengths in population, family, immigration, and inequality

UCI sociologist Paul Hanselman studies educational interventions. He's found that with less than one-hour of online training, students can expand the way they think about their intellectual abilities and improve their GPAs.

socnet@uci.edu | 949.824.6800

www.sociology.uci.edu

Programmatic powerhouse. Full financial aid and funding. Lens-worthy location. The reasons students choose the UC Irvine School of Social Sciences for their graduate pursuits are many.

Ranked among the top 10 public programs in the U.S. (U.S. News & World Report), the UCI graduate program in sociology offers students six years of guaranteed funding. Scholars in the department have a proven record of earning competitive research funding from national agencies including the National Science Foundation and National Institutes of Health; from private foundations including the Russell Sage Foundation and Grant Foundation; and from campus-level fellowships, such as the Public Impact, Fletcher Jones and Chancellor's Club fellowships.

Faculty in the department publish regularly in the field's top academic journals, and graduate students have incredible opportunities to publish alongside them.

And if that wasn't enough, the UCI campus is located less than 10 miles from Newport Beach, is the #1 university doing the most for the American dream (New York Times College Access Index), and the #1 best value university in the U.S. (Forbes). And USA Today College ranked UCI the #8 place to earn a sociology degree.

UCI sociology is internationally recognized for research and training that supports studies across the spectrum of quantitative, qualitative and multi-method approaches to social issues. Research specialties within the department include:

- Culture
- Economy, inequality, labor & organizations
- Education
- Gender & family
- Global inequality & change
- Immigration
- Political sociology
- Social movements
- Population
- Race & ethnicity
- Social networks

Sociology faculty contribute not only to the department and the wider field but also to the campus's interdisciplinary units, providing leadership and core faculty to the institutes and centers. Students have an opportunity to earn a master's degree while in pursuit of their Ph.D., and are encouraged to enroll in interdisciplinary coursework.

In short, graduate students in sociology at UCI join a vibrant, collegial, rigorous academic program, with instruction from leading experts in the field, and a collaborative atmosphere that fosters success.

Alumni have entered tenure-track positions at top research universities, highly competitive post-doctoral positions, and research-oriented jobs in both the public and private sectors. A sampling of recent placements:

- Boston University
- Google
- Harvard University
- RAND Corporation
- Tulane University
- University College London
- UNC Chapel Hill
- University of Tokyo
- University of Washington
- U.S. Census Bureau

If full funding, opportunities to publish, and a proven track record of excellence in the field are what you're looking for in a graduate program, contact us today to learn more about UCI sociology.

David John Frank, Department Chair
frankd@uci.edu | 949.824.1117

Yang Su, Co-Graduate Director
su.yang@uci.edu | 949.824.6800

Jennifer Gerson, Graduate Advisor
jennifer.gerson@uci.edu | 949.824.4074